

Remember Jane Creba

She was out shopping with her mom and sister in downtown Toronto on Boxing Day, 2005. She found herself in the wrong place at the wrong time when two groups of Negro gang members began a gunfight in a dispute over drugs. She was struck by one of their bullets and died soon afterwards.

The Negro gang members should never have been in Canada in the first place. Open borders and lax immigration standards were as responsible for her death as the Negro thugs who killed her.
